REPORT

I have done an internship of 3 months duration.The name of the organization is 'Adore India'(https://adoreindia.org/).I joined there on 14 April,2021.The work was online.After joining Adore India there were several tasks which I was allocated to do:

So there I did:-

- Conduct online sessions at various orphanages. In total,I have conducted 75 sessions.
- Conducted online workshops.
- Observed some sessions conducted by other volunteers.
- Managed and co managed workshops. I have managed an origami workshop and co managed a fun and learn workshop and a prograce workshop.
- Did Facebook promotions for workshops
- Prepared two newsletters for workshops and posters for promotion
- Attended various meetings and webinars.

The skill required for this internship was teaching skills.The selection was based on an interview which was conducted online.By doing several tasks as part of this internship, I have learnt a lot of things. Learning is the most important thing. So the things that I have learnt throughout the internship were :-

- Learned that I can teach children confidently
- Improved communication skills
- Learned Canva designing.
- Improved time management skills.

- Achieved public speaking skills. According to me,this is the most important skill that I have gained by doing this internship. Because before joining Adore India,I was a person who was afraid to speak at least one word in front of a crowd. But I can say, after I joined there,the fear of public speaking reduced a lot...now I can speak in front of anyone confidently.

REPORT

VTJ Hyundai

VTJ Hyundai is a dealership of Hyundai cars. The internship was a one month programme at the head office of VTJ Hyundai showroom and service centre ,Kundannoor. I worked from 02-11-2020 to 30-11-2020 in the account section.

The internship was amidst the Covid pandemic situation hence the task was related to the pandemic . I was assigned to enquire about the cancellation of booked cars to the clients and to record that data in MS Excel for the organization's future use.

This internship helped me understand more about MS Excel and also helped a lot in improving my communication skills and time management skills.

In a nutshell, it was a great working experience . I am grateful to the HR department and the account section employees for lending their support throughout my internship period.

The Sparks Foundation

The Sparks Foundation is an educational management company based in Singapore. The aim of the company involves the gradual rotational internship programme that allow interns to complete tasks of their respective choice of domain.

The area of my interest for the internship was 'data science and business analytics'.It was a one month internship from 1/06/2021 to 30/06/2021. This internship helped me enhance my programming skills . I got the opportunity to perform different projects,test my skills and learn new concepts and was also able to collaborate with peers to share different perspectives of the given tasks. Overall it was an excellent and rewarding experience.

JANAAGRAHA CENTRE FOR CITIZENSHIP & DEMOCRACY

Dr. Mary Liya C A,
Assistant Professor & Head of the Department,
Department of Economics,
St. Teresa's College (Autonomous),
Ernakulam.

20 October 2021

Sub.: Regarding collaboration with the Janaagraha CLDP student volunteering programme

Dear Dr Liya,

Greetings from Janaagraha!

It gives us immense pleasure to collaborate with the Department of Economics, St. Teresa's College (Autonomous), Ernakulam, for the Janaagraha Councillor Leadership Development Programme (CLDP) – Student Volunteering Programme.

As you would agree, the Councillor is the bridge between citizen and the government at the "first-mile" and in that capacity closest to the citizen, geographically and substantively. But unfortunately, the role of Councillor is not taken seriously in India. To strengthen Urban Local Governments in India, we believe that it is imperative to strengthen the hands of elected Councillors in cities.

A significant step towards elevating the position of the Councillors is also to make available their profiles at par with the MPs and MLAs in India. Janaagraha is working towards curating such profiles collaborating with academic institutions across India through Janaagraha CLDP student volunteering programme.
There are eight students selected from your esteemed institution to be part of this volunteering programme (Refer annexure), and they will be working closely with Janaagraha's CLDP team towards curating profiles of Councillors across India's cities.

The terms and conditions are given below:

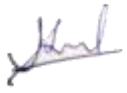
1. This will be a part time volunteering engagement by students wherein they put in an average of 4-5 hours every week to build profile of City Councillors in India, basis the guidelines provided by Janaagraha's CLDP team. Volunteers will be allotted Councillors based on their language competency, and familiarity with the State/region
2. Volunteers should mandatorily undergo an orientation training by Janaagraha
3. Volunteers should collect the requisite information based on the Google form they are instructed to fill, vide desktop research, and reaching out to the assigned Councillors over call / in-person. Volunteers should ensure that they follow utmost diligence while collecting the necessary information as well as while feeding in the information on the Google form
4. Volunteers are discouraged to record their calls with the Councillors as it may lead to the collection of inaccurate or incomplete data. Additionally, it raises questions of data privacy and storage

5. Volunteers should strictly adhere with the protocols and guidelines set by Janaagraha's CLDP team at any point in time, of this engagement
6. Volunteers should join the WhatsApp group set by Janaagraha's CLDP team for easier communication
7. Janaagraha CLDP student volunteering programme will be anchored by Shilpi Sinha Ray, Senior Associate – Civic Participation, shilpi.sinha@janaagraha.org & Priyanka Tibrewal, Intern – Advocacy & Reforms, priyanka.tibrewal@janaagraha.org. Volunteers shall feel free to reach out to them for any support over email and / or during specified time slots over phone/WhatsApp
8. The data collected by volunteers is "confidential information", and is a property of Janaagraha. "Confidential Information" means any data or information that is proprietary to Janaagraha, and not generally known to the public, whether in tangible or intangible form. Volunteers should strictly maintain confidentiality of data collected, and the same shall not be shared or used further until Janaagraha makes such data available on the public domain. Please note that Janaagraha intends to make this data available on public domain, and this may take time.
9. This engagement will be on a pro-bono basis, and no monetary compensation will be involved
10. The preliminary phase of this volunteering programme will begin end of September and close by mid-November
11. Dr. Anupa Jacob, Assistant Professor, Department of Economics, will be the faculty coordinator
12. Volunteers will receive volunteer certificates from Janaagraha upon successful completion of the assigned task
13. The collaboration with the institution will be recognised in the final output of Janaagraha that would showcase councillor profiles

The curation of Councillor profiles will be an ongoing project and is envisaged to eventually scale up to all cities in India. We look forward to continuing the collaboration with your institution for the Janaagraha CLDP student volunteering programme, for a longer tenure, beyond this preliminary phase.

Thank you once again for being part of the Janaagraha CLDP student volunteering programme.

Yours Truly,



Srinivas Alavilli
Head – Civic Participation

REPORT

The first one was a virtual internship program named GRIP (Graduate Rotational Internship Program) by The Sparks Foundation, a company that aims to inspire students, help them innovate and let them integrate to build the next generation humankind. It was a one-month internship program under Data Science and Business analytics domain from 1 May 2021 to 1 June 2021.The assignment was to implement machine learning algorithms using python. Being a graduate and having a computer were the requirements for participating. The tasks included application of both supervised and unsupervised learning algorithms. There were 8 tasks in total, out of which I was able to complete 2, which made me eligible for a certificate of completion. Most of the python codes required were easily available on the internet and I used Google Colab for the implementation of algorithms. After successful completion of tasks, the recorded explanation videos were uploaded in Linkedin profile so that peer interns would evaluate the work by commenting on the post.
After the completion of internship, I was able to connect with people on Linkedin, which opened a new phase of my professional life. Also, it gave me a basic idea on machine learning.

The second one was also a virtual internship program named LGMVIP (Let's Grow More Virtual Internship Program) by Let's Grow More, a company that help others to gain personal and professional skills in the area of technological development. It was a one-month internship program in Data Science from 1 September 2021 to 1 October 2021.The assignment was to implement machine learning algorithms using python. Being a graduate and having a computer were the requirements for participating. The tasks included application of both supervised and unsupervised learning algorithms. There were 8 tasks in total, out of which I was able to complete 4, which made me eligible for a certificate of completion. Most of the python codes required were easily available on the internet and I used Google Colab for the implementation of algorithms. After successful completion of tasks, the recorded explanation videos were uploaded in Linkedin profile by tagging Mr. Aman Kesarvani, the founder of Let's Grow More so that he and peer interns would evaluate the work by commenting on the post.
After the completion of internship, I was able to understand the practical working of these machine learning algorithms which is really important for me as a data analyst aspirant.

CO-OPERATIVE BANKS IN INDIA

The cooperative banks are also regulated by the RESERVE BANK OF INDIA (RBI) and governed by BANKING REGULATIONS ACT 1949 and BANKING LAWS (COOPERATIVE SOCIETIES) ACT, 1955.The co-operative banks in India are well established financial service organization. The first legislation of cooperation was passed in 1904.co-operative banks are organized and managed on the principal of co-operation, self-help and mutual help. They function on the basis of no profit no loss basis. The co-operative banks in India started functioning almost 100 years ago. The Co-operative bank is an important constituent of the Indian Financial System, judging by the role assigned to cooperative bank operate. Though the co-operative movement originated in the west, but the importance of such banks has assumed in India rarely paralleled anywhere else in the world. The co-operative bank I the urban areas also have increased phenomenally in recent years due to the sharp increase in the number of primary co-operatives. While the co-operative banks in rural areas mainly finance agriculturally based activities including farming, cattle, milk, hatchery, personal finance etc. along with some small-scale industries and self-employment driven activities, the co-operative banks in urban areas mainly finance various categories of people for self-employment industries, small scale units, home finance, consumer finance, personal finance etc. Co-operative Banks in India are regulated under the Co-operative Societies Act. The co-operative bank is also regulated by RBI. They are governed by the Banking Regulations Act1949 and Banking Laws (Co-operative Societies) Act, 196. A co-operative bank is financial entity which belongs to its members, who are at the same time the owners and the customers of their bank. Co-operative banks are often created by persons belonging to the same local or professional community or sharing common interest.

ESTABLISHMENT OF CO-OPERATIVE BANKS IN INDIA

Co-operative Banks in India were started during 1904 when official efforts were initiated to create a new type of institution based on the principles of co-operative organization and management which were considered to be suitable for solving the problems peculiar to Indian conditions. Co-operative banks were conceived and were expected to substitute such agencies to provide adequate short term and long-term institutional credit at reasonable rates of interest, and to bring about integration of the unorganized and organized segments of India ‘s money Farmers in India are scattered all over the country and need short term small borrowings for agricultural purposed. This need is not fulfilled by commercial banks, which are unsuited for financing agriculture. Land, which these farmers can offer to cover bank advances, is not generally accepted as security by commercial banks. Therefore, special types of banks are best suited for this purpose. The object of co-operative banks is to offer banking facilities to persons of limited means requiring credit for productive purposes in the use of the land and labour at their disposal. In 1914 the government of India appointed a committee under Sir Edward Mac lagan to survey the progress of co-operation in the country. The committee submitted its report in 1915, in which it made several recommendations, principal one being the institution of provincial cooperative pyramid. The present organization in India is based upon the findings of this report. In 1919, the Montague Chelmsford act made co-operation a provincial subject. Since then, all the state governments have passed their own separate co-operative societies acts.

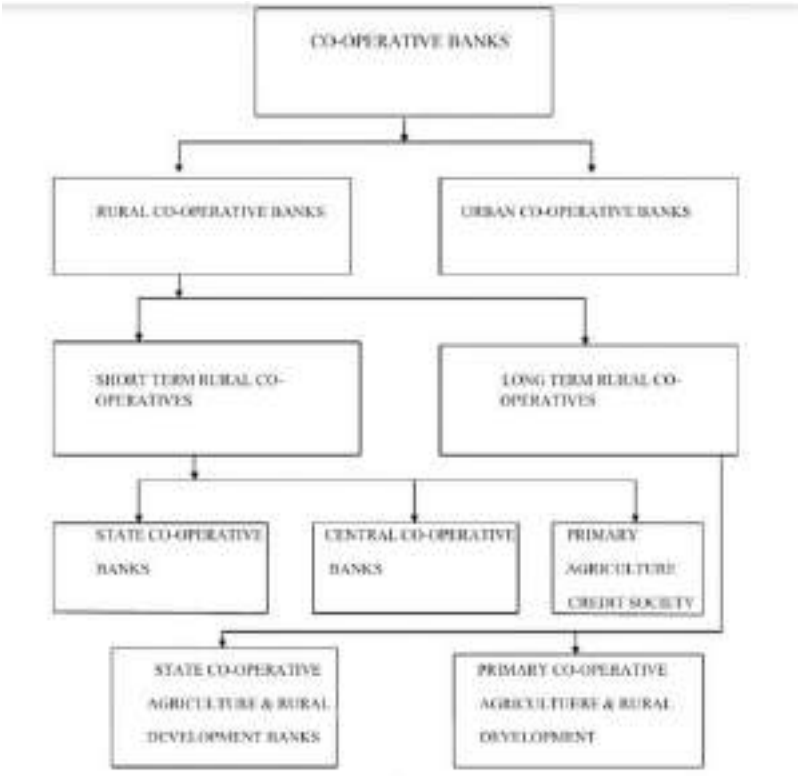
STRUCTURE OF CO-OPERATIVE BANK



ROLE OF CO-OPERATIVE BANKING IN INDIA

Co-operative Banks are much more important in India than anywhere else in the world. The distinctive character of this bank is service at a lower cost and service without exploitation. It has gained its importance by the role assigned to them, the expectations they are supposed to full fill, their number, and the number of offices they operate. Co-operative bank's role in rural financing continues to be important day by day, and their business in the urban areas also has increased phenomenally in recent years mainly due to the sharp increase in the number of primary Cooperative banks. In rural areas, as far as the agricultural and related activities are concerned, the supply of credit was inadequate, and money lenders would exploit the poor people in rural areas providing them loans at higher rates. So, Co-operative banks mobilize deposits and purvey agricultural and rural credit with a wider outreach and provide institutional credit to the farmers. Co-operative bank has also been an important instrument for various development schemes, particularly subsidy-based programmes for poor.

OBJECTIVES OF CO-OPERATIVE BANKS

- To provide support and services to the members of the society and not to earn the profit.
- To help each other mutually and not to have competition.
- To provide easy credit facilities to the farmers.
- To practice fair and transparent business activities.
- To deliver the quality goods and produce to the end customers.
- To develop self-reliance, co-operation and self-respect among the members.
- To purchase and supply raw materials, tools and equipment's needed by workers.

- To obtain contacts from government and other organizations.
- To purchase machinery and other equipment's required by members and to hire them to the members for quality production.
- To construct take-on rent godowns for finished products and raw materials.
- To undertake all such activities needed for the welfare and well-being of the member and the society.

ADVANTAGES

- Membership of the co-operative society is open to all, who have a common object of providing service without expecting returns on it. The member can join and leave the society as per their wish.
- Capital Invested for the society is contributed by the member and various grant and subsidies are received from the government for smooth processing of business.
- A cooperative society is registered under Cooperative Societies Act, it is a separate legal entity where the liability of its member is limited. It can run the business under its name.
- Where the cooperative society earns more profit while conducting their business operation, it is distributed among the members based on their participation in business.

DISADVANTAGES

- Co-operative society targets small and medium-size businesses.
- Due to lack of funds, it is difficult to promote the business operation and sales promotion.
- Lack of management skills to control and monitor the members.

- Management has to depend on Honesty, Integrity, and loyalty to the members.
- Unavailability of new technology.
- These are not businesses in true sense. People might not have confidence in these businesses.
- Interference of the government.
- Lack of business secrecy.
- Cash trading.
- Lack of motivation.
- Political interference.
- Lack of public confidence.
- Limited scope for expansion

Registration process of a cooperative bank

- To form a society, minimum 10 Individuals shall be desirous of forming a society for mutual benefit.
- Once the group is formed, a provisional committee is established and they elect a chief promoter for the society.
- The name for the society is selected the chief promoter and members mutually.
- An application has to be made to registration authority explaining the business operation to be conducted by the members. After submitting documents and confirming, the concerned authority issues a certificate of name approval.
- After name approval, the registration fees and the share capital amount have to be collected from prospective members.
- A separate bank account in the name of the society must be opened. Registration fees and share capital amount has to be deposited in that bank account. The bank will issue a certificate for it.

- Once the bank formalities are completed, the chief promoter has to apply for the registration process with all set of documents.
- The application for registration has to be made in Form No. A, which needs to be consent of 90% of the members.
- Once the documents are submitted, the concerned authority will cross verify the documents and decide whether to issue a certificate or not?
- The register of application is maintained by the registrar of the particular ward to enter the details of the new forming society. An application has to be made in Form B.
- The Registrar issues a receipt for submission of application and provide the status of such application from time to time.
- If there is any discrepancy in the application, it must be sent for rectification.
- The registering authority after being satisfied will notify society registration in the gazette and issue a registration certificate to its members.

Problems faced by co-operative bank

Co-operative banks are no exceptions when it comes to problems. As in the case of commercial banks, these do have certain problem:

- The vital link in co-operative credit system namely, the primary co-operative associations themselves are weak.
- They suffer from weak quality of loan assets and force unsatisfactory recovery of loans.
- They suffer from infrastructure weakness and structural flaws.
- They suffer to some extent officially and politically.
- Limited ability to mobilize resources.
- Low Level of recovery.
- High transaction of cost.
- Administered rate of interest structure for a long time.
- Due to cooperative legislation and administration, Govt. interference has become are regular feature in the day-to-day administration of the cooperative institution. Some of the problem area that arises out of the applicability of the cooperative's legislative is:
- Deliberate control of cooperatives by the government
    - Nomination of board of director by the government.

- Participation of the nominated director by the government.
- Deputation of government officials to cooperative institution etc.

- The state cooperative banks are not able to formulate their respective policies for investment of their funds that include their surplus resources because of certain restrictions.
- Prior approval of RBI is mandatory for opening of new branches of SCBs. The SCBs are required to submit the proposal for opening of new branches to RBI through NABARD, whose recommendations is primarily taken into consideration while according permission.

CONCLUSION

As an intern at Eloor service cooperative bank I was able to understand the duties and responsibilities of each and every employee. I learned more about preparation of day book, gehan form, sorting of vouchers, arbitration, recording of membership details etc. This internship threw light on my strengths and weaknesses. I was able to utilize my theoretical knowledge and implement it practically. Though my internship period was only for 20 days I came to know more about the banking jobs. Working in a financial institution, helped me to apply things I have learned till now into practical.

During my internship I was able to improve my communication skills, confidence, and ethical working values. Not only did I gain practical knowledge but also had the opportunity to meet different people and learned how to deal with them in an ethical way. In a nutshell, this internship has been an excellent and rewarding experience. I can conclude that there have been a lot I've learnt from my work at the bank.

INTRODUCTION

Co-operative banks are financial entities established on a co-operative basis and belonging to their members. This means that the customers of a co-operative bank are also its owners. These banks provide a wide range of regular banking and financial services.

Indian Cooperative Banks was also born out of distress prevalent in Indian society. The Cooperative Credit Societies Act, 1904 led to the formation of Cooperative Credit Societies in both rural and urban areas. The act was based on recommendations of Sir Frederick Nicholson (1899) and Sir Edward Law (1901).

Co-operative banks offer basic banking functions and services in rural, urban and semi-urban areas, where banking facilities are scarce. This means that the customers of a co-operative bank are also its owners. These banks provide a wide range of regular banking and financial services(loans, deposits, banking accounts). They are registered under the Cooperative Societies Act, 1912, and governed by the Banking Regulations Act 1949 and Banking Laws (co-operative societies) Act, 1965.

HISTORY OF CO-OPERATIVE BANKS

The term Urban Co-operative Banks (UCBs), though not formally defined, refers to primary cooperative banks located in urban and semi-urban areas. These banks, till 1996, were allowed to lend money only for non-agricultural purposes. This distinction does not hold today. These banks were traditionally centred around communities, localities work place groups. They essentially lent to small borrowers and businesses. Today, their scope of operations has widened considerably.

The origins of the urban cooperative banking movement in India can be traced to the close of nineteenth century when, inspired by the success of the experiments related to the cooperative movement in Britain and the cooperative credit movement in Germany such societies were set up in India. Cooperative societies are based on the principles of cooperation, - mutual help, democratic decision making and open membership. Cooperatives represented a new and alternative approach to organisaton as against proprietary firms, partnership firms and joint stock companies which represent the dominant form of commercial organisation.

VISION AND MISSION OF CO-OPERATIVE BANK

We will consistently exceed customer expectation by providing value-adding solutions through professional and highly motivated people, delivering excellent financial performance in all markets where we operate. Main focus is to cover the areas which are not covered by adequate banking facilities.

MISSION: Fulfilling the goal and Objectives of the cooperative and to become an effective servant and provider in their financial necessity and suitable custodian in their debts and savings. A responsive, sustainable and viable cooperative.

Vision - Expanding banking activities to include new sectors and economic activities; such as agriculture, industry, trade and services. Provide financing for investors. Provide security for depositors. Achieving high and rapidly increasing growth rates.

OBJECTIVES OF CO-OPERATIVE BANKS

- To provide rural financing and micro-financing.
- To remove the dominance of money lenders and middleman.
- To provide credit services to agriculturalists and weaker sections of the society at comparatively lower rates.

FUNCTIONS OF CO-OPERATIVE BANK

The primary function of these co-operative banks is:

- Providing loans to small borrowers and small businesses.
- Extending credit facilities like term loans and working capital loans.
- Giving advances against shares and debentures.

IMPORTANCE OF CO-OPERATIVE BANKS

Co-operative banks aim to offer credit to the common man at moderate interest rates, eliminating the dominance of private money lenders. Providing agricultural loans to farmers at low interest rates for the growth of the agricultural sector and allied activities. Providing easy access to credit for rural industries.

ADVANTAGES OF CO-OPERATIVE BANKS

- Easy to Form: Forming a cooperative society is a no-brainer. Minimum 10 adults are needed to form a cooperative society. The funds and time required is minimal to get the society registered. The legal formalities are bare minimum.

- No Restriction on Membership: The membership of cooperative society is open for all and the members can walk out of the organisation of their own free will. No discrimination is made on the basis of gender, caste, creed and political association. The shares of a cooperative society are so affordable that even the low income groups can purchase them.

- Limited Liability: The liability of the members is limited to the extent of the capital contributed by them. Therefore, not only the members are absolved from the fear of attachment to their private property, in case the society goes through financial losses; the share of risk of each member is also known beforehand.

- Service Motive: Cooperative societies are meant for serving their members. Unlike other business organisations, they are not profit-driven. They aim to provide finer goods and services at reasonable rates. Further, cooperative societies render financial help to their members at a concession. They prevent the concentration of economic power and wealth in a few hands. They are also a breeding ground for mutual cooperation, brotherhood, moral values, service and many other virtues.

- Democratic Management: In a cooperative society, the representatives are elected on the basis of 'one member one vote.' Therefore, the management is totally democratic. Each member has the right to equal say or equal vote regardless of the capital contributed by him or her.

- Income Tax Exemption: Cooperative societies enjoy the privilege of paying no taxes to the government on their earnings. They are also exempt from paying Stamp Duty and Registration Fees.

- Durability: After getting registered, a cooperative society becomes a distinct legal entity. The death or bankruptcy of the members has no effect on its functioning. For this reason, it is a durable enterprise.

- Cheaper Goods: The cooperative societies directly buy goods from wholesalers and producers. Thus, they are able to procure goods at a cheaper rate.

- State Patronage: The aim of cooperative societies is to serve and strengthen the weaker sections of the society. Therefore, the government helps them by offering them loans on easy terms and conditions. They also offer special grants and subsidies to the cooperative societies.

DISADVANTAGES OF CO-OPERATIVE BANKS

- Limited Resources: The financial strength of cooperative societies is low due to limited supply of capital. The membership fee is less as most members belong to middle and low income groups. The face value of shares is also very nominal. In addition, the loan raising capacity from state cooperative banks is also limited. Thus, cooperative societies are incapable of striving for expansion due to shortage of funds.

- Incapable Management: The managerial board of a cooperative society is elected by the members. These members may not possess adequate qualifications and skills to run a business organisation efficiently. This can prove to be a major drawback for the success of the cooperative society.

- Lack of Motivation: Honorary office bearers of the society may lack enthusiasm to perform their office duties as they get little or no incentive to work hard. Due to absence of link between efforts and material rewards, the members may lack the zest to serve the organisation to the best of their abilities. The results of such negatives are bound to show up in the functioning of the cooperative society.

- Rigid Business Practices: Cooperative societies follow conventional modes of sale. They cannot embrace new-age selling methods such as credit sale, home delivery, discount sales, etc. Therefore, their rigid business techniques fail them in competing with private business establishments.

- Limited Consideration: The cooperative societies are established for the purpose of serving their members. Profits earned by them are very low. As a result, the low return on investment is a factor which demotivates people from becoming the member of these enterprises.

- High Interest Rate: The cooperative societies enjoy the privilege of credit options from banks. Yet, the high rate of interest eats away a big chunk of their earnings. Thus, they are unable to save much as a large part of their income is spent on paying the high interest and principle amount to the financial institutions.

- Lack of Secrecy: The affairs of a cooperative society are openly discussed in meetings. The members can independently audit the books and records. Due to lack of secrecy in the business affairs, a number of loopholes are created within the organisation.

- Undue Government Intervention: The daily operations of a cooperative society are subject to government rules and regulations. Regular book-keeping, auditing and inspection of accounts by the government officials are mandatory aspects of the organisation. The reports have to be submitted to the registrar. All these legal formalities take a lot of time and consequently inhibit efficiency.

- Conflict among Members: The members of cooperative society come from different walks of life. Often, their views on important issues may differ from each other leading to strong resentment and disharmony among them. Some ambitious members also want to control the functions of the organisation.

CONCLUSION

Finance is the life blood of trade, commerce and industry. Now a days, Cooperative Banks are differ from stockholders bank by their organization, their goals, their values and their governance. In most country they are supervised and controlled by banking authorities and have to respect prudential banking regulations, which put them at a level playing field with stockholders banks.

My industrial training experience in Poonithura Service Co-operative Bank was very intresting and helpful. It makes me more comfortable to work in an office. It enhances my knowledge and concepts about banking. It provides me more information and technical aspects about banking and banking procedures. The co-workes were very friendly and helpful in guiding me to do works. It was a great experience for me to explore my intership days in Poonithura Service Co-operative Bank.

SWOT ANALYSIS

STRENGTH

- Membership in co-operative bank is open to all people having a common interest .Registration I very simple and can be done without much legal formalities.

- It has a separate legal existence. It is not affected by the death, insolvency, lunacy or permanent incapacity of any of its members. It has a fairly stable life and continues to exist for a long period.

- The co-operative bank promotes the spirit of mutual understanding, self-help and self- government. They save weaker section of the society from exploitation by the rich.

- Government gives all kinds of help to co-operatives, such as loans at lower rate of interest and relief in taxation.

WEAKNESS

- Rigid rules and regulations – Excessive Government regulation and control over co-operatives affect their functioning.

- Lack of secrecy – The affairs of a co-operative society are openly discussed in meetings. The members can independently audit the books and records. Due to lack of secrecy in the business affairs, a number of loopholes are created within the organization.

- Differences and factionalism among members – The differences and group conflicts arise among members. Then, it becomes difficult to get full co-operation from members. the selfish motives of members begin to dominate and service motive is sometimes forgotten.

OPPURTUNTIES

- Technology – The bank have also used technology to help in reconciliation and auditing of operations and to reduce the chances of mistakes or frauds.
- Happy to work with – co-operative bank offers good remuneration to the employees. And also offer added benefits to the employees like minimum rate of interest on loans, medical benefits, pension benefits and so on.

THREATS

- The existence of heavy overdues – The overdues are continuously rising over the years. Faulty loaning policies, inadequate supervision, over utilization of loans, ineffective measures for recovery, willful defaulters, etc... are the main causes of unsatisfactory level of overdues.

- The procedure of receiving a loan from the bank is so complicated that the agriculturist is forced to seek help from the money lender.
- weightage to personal gains – Mutual co-operation erodes away over a period of time and the members start giving weightage to their personal gains.
- Lack of unity –The members of bank come from different walks of life. Often, their views on important issues may differ from each other leading to strong resentment and disharmony among them. Some ambitious members also want to control the functions of the organization.
- The daily operations of a co-operative society are subject to government rules and regulations.

CONCLUSION

I had completed twenty days of internship training in the Peruvanthanam Service co-operative bank. It was a good experience and beneficial for the understanding of the functions , objectives ,and technical aspects of the bank. It helps to enhance and develop my skills, abilities, and knowledge. Peruvanthanam Service co-operative society is the best place to do the internship since it provides numerous benefits and advantages to the practical trainees. I am grateful and thankful to the people who helped in the bank, especially the staffs of different sections in the bank, who help me to handle some of my weakness and gave me instructions at the right time. Majority of the people near the Panchayath are satisfied with the services provided by the bank so the bank can enjoy higher supports from them. Internship program is very important for student education because it is helpful to learn the practical knowledge and technical aspects of the work.
